

Heaven or Hell

These two words were introduced in reference to death but is it so? Do you achieve heaven/hell after death or during life? There could be various associated perspectives; That your karma decides your path after death but I believe they do so during life and the path is not that easy as told. you will get heaven if you are engaged in good deeds and helping others, being truthful, honest and loyal. But it isn't that easy. you might do all the former and still be in hell. The deciding factor is your company and your adaptation to the people surrounding you lays the basis of heaven and hell till a certain age. Yes, till a certain age because after that you can achieve the power of independence. you can have the freedom to choose. you cannot choose your family members or the classmates of your school. Everybody needs love but that becomes a luck factor in case of childhood but definitely not for adulthood. If your childhood is bizarre that was not your choice but a bizarre adulthood is surely is. you can change things maybe still you will get mean people in spite of you being righteous but now you have the power to eliminate them. Any type of expectation from others is surely hell but avoiding this hell is impractical. You will willingly or unwillingly expect from people surrounding you Still you can create a life which could be built on your shoulders alone. Yes having a life with good people/ others loving you or getting a love from the one you want maybe luck. But the good thing is you can at least achieve self-respect (which is way different than ego and hard to achieve). There are certain people more under privileged than you. This statement sounds good when heard but aint practical. If I am feeling bad then seeing someone in more disastrous condition will not make me feel good but helping someone of that kind might at least earn me an honest and genuine smile. It can grant me happiness in quants (small packets all of different wavelengths). The world is not some Bollywood film there is no guarantee of happy ending. Some will have to work very hard to lay their path towards it while some needn't to move even a feather. We all are different. Our paths are different, Our struggles are different, Our heaven and hell are different. But one thing is for sure, we all can make sure about "efforts to save someone/many from going down in the same conditions which we personally went through and that could sometimes lead us towards heaven during our lifetime. The concept of heaven and hell are personified you discover your own and you work for your own, The direction of self-discovery will unravel your heaven and hell and efforts will lead the path towards either of them.